Reused Studs from Deconstructed Walls

All of the studs from the existing walls in the house were saved and the nails were removed and recycled.

The studs were stored in the garage and in the metal storage shed and reused when the new walls were built in the house.

We put up fewer walls than we took down so we had plenty of normal length studs.

We had to purchase some ten foot studs for the master bedroom and some 2 x 6's for the new exterior door framing.

Recycled Billboard Vinyl and Restore Plastic Tape

The crawlspace floor was covered with recycled billboard vinyl and taped with high quality plastic tape purchased from the Habitat Restore. This Bron tape is manufactured in Denver so it is also a local product. The light blue product is double sided. Some of the tape was yellow. I also used the tape to seal the vapor barrier that was placed over the compacted gravel under the new slab.

Hi,

I made an inquiry a few months ago about polyiso. You said you had some and were expecting more. We are closer to needing it now. Do you have 1 1/2" to 2" thicknesses? We would need about 50 to 60 4x8 sheets. (or equivalent smaller sizes.)

I also bought 3" XPS in 2 x 8 foot sections in the past. I could use a bit more of that too if it is still available.

If you have either or both of these on hand, would you please send me a quote?

Thanks,

Ellen Dibble

Leftover Cedar Boards - $25 (Arvada)

Did a big project, have some cedar leftover, all the pieces pictured are about 5.5'-6', mostly 3/4" but some 2x as well, also not pictured are two longer lengths of cedar 2x6, and i believe three long lengths of 3/4"x4". Just the 2x6's are worth more than what im asking, just need to make some room in the garage!!!
